

ONE MAN'S TRASH... ANOTHER MAN'S TREASURE

I will never forget the night when a street kid came into a bar in Western Africa to ask me for the chicken bones on my plate. My plate looked exactly like that above. This child then proceeded to eat my bones in front of me, the very bones that I thought were ready for the bin.

As an international volunteer for the Human Development Promotion (PDH), I would like to inform you about a fantastic little tin shed that carries out humanitarian work in Lomé, the capital of Togo. They desperately need donations and international volunteers. I therefore urge you to go to the following website to listen to their story: www.togosupport.org

*Poster and website created and produced by PDH volunteers

email : pdh_volontaires@yahoo.fr
website : www.togosupport.org
tel : 00228 910 46 34

La Promotion et Développement Humain (PDH)
B.P. 20832 Lomé, Togo, West Africa